The screenshot shows the homepage of the USAID Land Tenure and Property Rights Portal. The top navigation bar includes links for HOME, PROJECTS, RESEARCH, SERVICES, EVENTS, MEDIA, and ABOUT. The main header features the USAID logo and social media icons for Twitter (2) and Facebook (3). Below the header, the page title reads "USAID LAND TENURE and PROPERTY RIGHTS PORTAL". The main content area is titled "COMMENTARY" and features three articles:

- Investment 'Can' Benefit Communities With Secure Land Rights: A commentary piece dated Wednesday, September 19, 2012, discussing the benefits of secure land rights for agriculture, conservation, and biofuel production.
- Reforms in Haiti Address Tenure Issues: A commentary piece dated Monday, September 17, 2012, discussing land and property issues in Haiti following the 2010 earthquake.
- Impact of Land Rights on Girls' Education: A commentary piece discussing the connection between securing land rights and improving educational opportunities for girls.

On the right side of the page, there is a "SPOTLIGHTS" section with two featured images:

- GLOBAL CLIMATE CHANGE: An image showing people working in a field, with a caption stating "Property rights play an important role in addressing the impacts of climate change."
- KENYA JUSTICE: An image showing two young girls smiling.
